Shaping the future of air travel
A350XWB: new generation aircraft

- XWB stands for Extra Wide Body: extra cabin space to experience a feeling of on-board comfort like never before.
- Iberia is the first customer of a new model incorporating a "wing-twist" aerodynamic improvement.
- More than 50% of the structural weight is made of composite materials.
- Fuel consumption and CO2 emissions are 25% lower than previous-generation aircraft.
- The A350 XWB’s cabin also is the quietest on a twin-aisle aircraft (4 times quieter than the Dreamliner), and its advanced technology delivers the highest possible air quality with optimised cabin altitude (6000 ft), temperature and humidity, with the air being renewed every two-to-three minutes.
- Plus, brand new cabins with panoramic windows and LED lighting will make flying more comfortable and enjoyable and will reduce jetlag.
