

BRITISH AIRWAYS ADDS MORE SHORT HAUL PRICE POINTS FOR NDC BOOKINGS

In these challenging times we remain committed to supporting our partners and are continuing to focus on enhancing and improving our NDC capability and content.

We are increasing the available price points on our short haul routes in Euro Traveller (Short haul Economy) and Club Europe (Short haul Business) from 57 to 73. This will not only provide greater consistency and optimisation for the upsell amount between our Euro Traveller and Club Europe cabins, but will also offer our customers a wider range of prices to better suit their budget.

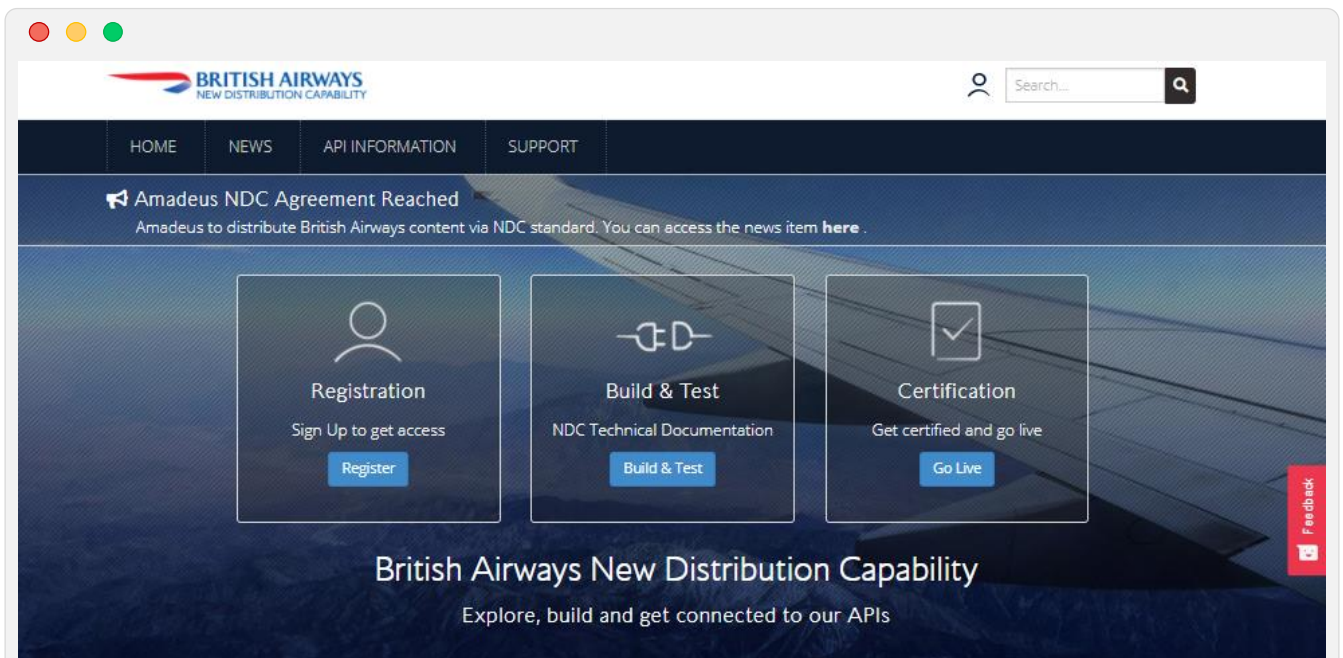

The additional price points will be available to book by any partner with access to the British Airways' NDC APIs, giving them access to a wider range of price points.

These are available to book from today, 30 March 2021, on short haul flights for point-to-point journeys that are both operated and marketed by British Airways mainline*.

We recognise and appreciate that not all agents are connected to NDC and our NDC Onboarding team are keen to work with you to plan for NDC in the future.

Please visit ndc.ba.com or contact your Account Manager who will be happy to help.

*Please refer to FAQ document for limited exceptions.

The screenshot shows the British Airways NDC website interface. At the top, there is a navigation bar with links for HOME, NEWS, API INFORMATION, and SUPPORT. A search bar is located on the right. Below the navigation, a news banner reads "Amadeus NDC Agreement Reached" with a sub-headline "Amadeus to distribute British Airways content via NDC standard. You can access the news item here." The main content area features three large cards: "Registration" (Sign Up to get access, Register button), "Build & Test" (NDC Technical Documentation, Build & Test button), and "Certification" (Get certified and go live, Go Live button). The footer contains the text "British Airways New Distribution Capability" and "Explore, build and get connected to our APIs". A small red "Feedback" button is visible in the bottom right corner.